A WHOLESALE FIRE

Wm. Marshall, of Addison, Loses Ho House and Barn. One of the largest country fires on record occurred last Sunday morning at a little village called Addison, about eighteen miles rom this city, in Champaign county. The oser of the destroyed property is William Marshall, a dealer in horses, buggies and wagons. In the morning the hired man went out to the barn to hitch on the horses to a buggy, as Mr Marshall and tamily intended go to church. As soon as he opened the barn door he saw a blaze of fire in the har. He immediately set to work to get all the as possible. By the time he got the last hors out of the door the barn was one mass lames. The entire barn and all its conten including five new unused buggies, was burned to the ground. As every man on the place had given all his energy toward saving the barn, the house was not thought of as I was not supposed to be on tire. But before anything could be done toward saving it, it tou was enveloped in fire. All that was saved in the house was some of the furniture of new split wood were destroyed, Mr.

Leffel let for New York on lost | the barn the night before and in some way by sother owars or matches had started the lames. As the stable is very close to the house the latter is supposed to bave caught from sparks from the termer. Mr. Marshel places his loss at about $10,000, with insurance amounting to only $3,300.

The Body of Wm. Conway Bears Evidence of Foul Play.

The body of William Conway, brother of Edward Conway, city mail carrier, was reeived here vesterday from Hot Springs, Ark the place where he died. When news was received here for the first time of his death, no mention was made of how he fied or how long he had been sick. The family mmon pleas court, William Diehl, James had heard from him but a few days before, W licensett and Charles Rabbitts being the and when the telegram arrived persons selected for the purpose. The prop- announcing his death, it was a great shock to erry consisted of the ice point and ice houses all the family. This morning Dr. Heary on Buck creek, and lots on High and other Saldwin was sent for to examine the hody to errets. The entire property was valued at | see, if in any way, it shall be determined how he shed. The doctor found upon the right fore-arm a long gash, but in what way has had been inflicted there he could not tell. t was not a pastel wound, nor was it made ly a sturp instrument, but looked as it had been done by some dull edged iol. Upon looking under the skin, he found that one of the blood-vessels had been severed and fied with a string to prevent further bleeding. This undoubtedly looks as if the deceased had been the victim
